

May Newsletter 2020

Ramadan Mubarak

Throughout History, crises of different forms have challenged humanity, some are political or Economic crises, others are natural disasters, social crises or pandemic diseases .How we interpret, react, and bounce back from the crises of today will define how will we survive crises of tomorrow.

Dear NVIS Community Members

As another week of home, learning comes to a beginning; all the fantastic and imaginative learning that the children have been completing yet again amazes me. We all recognise the pressures that you as parents must be under; trying to juggle working from home yourselves, with looking after and supporting the children with their learning, so I just want to express my thanks to you all for really rising to the challenge! All the staff have been working hard either at home, or on Campus, to provide learning opportunities for the children and I know they all really enjoy seeing the work that the children are producing and being able to interact and give ‘dojo’ points via Class Dojo and Google classroom.

PYP Students: Please continue to upload children’s learning over the week, as it is our way of being able to support the children in their learning. The class teachers are all available to discuss any concerns or worries that you have, so please do keep in touch.

MYP /DP and American students: Follow through tasks assignments and virtual classes via Google classroom so as not to miss due dates that will affect your reporting phase.

We are keeping a close eye on the latest Government advice and started receiving Arabic studies projects recommended by the MOE .Please make sure your child follows the guidelines and submits on time.

On a separate note, we would like to congratulate our PYP 8 and MYP 5 students for successfully completing their PYP Exhibition and MYP virtual Personal Project Exhibition- Congratulations on achieving this Milestone –Keep it up
